The HeartView 12L can transmit the recorded ECG either acoustically through the built-in speaker over the phone line or through its Bluetooth communication port.

The HeartView 12L has an internal memory that allows you to store the recorded ECG of a cardiac event.

The system can store only one complete recording at a time. Therefore, after recording an ECG, you must transmit it before making a new recording. Then restart the device to free up memory space for a new recording.

The HeartView 12L is supplied with a 10-channel cable for EKG recording. The cable is used with disposable electrodes. The physician should place the electrodes on the patient.

The HeartView 12L event recorder is classified according to EN 60601-1 as:

- Type of protection against electric shock: Internally actuated.
- Degree of protection against electric shock: Type CF equipment.
- Degree of protection against harmful penetration of water: Ordinary equipment (closed equipment without protection against the ingress of water).
- Degree of safety for use in the presence of a mixture of flammable anesthetic agents with air, with oxygen or nitrous oxide: Equipment not suitable for use in the presence of a mixture of flammable anesthetic agents with air, with oxygen or nitrous oxide.
- Sterilization or disinfection methods recommended by the manufacturer: Not applicable.
- Mode of operation: continuous operation.

EXPECTED USE

The HeartView 12L is a battery operated external application (on intact skin) ECG event recorder and transmitter that can acquire and transmit a 12-lead ECG. The acquired data is sent by phone or wireless link to a reception center, a PC, a handheld device for visualization, review, storage, printing and post-event evaluation by medical personnel. The device does not have alarm functions or display of the recorded ECG. The device does not have diagnostic capabilities and does not have measurement functions.

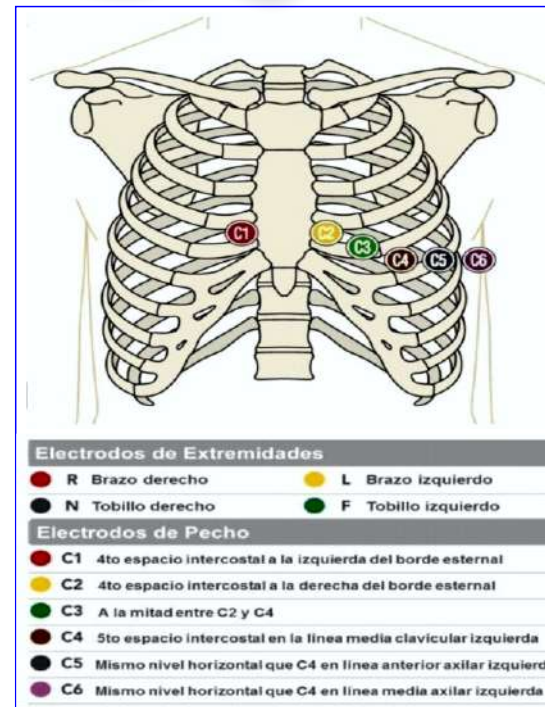

Conclusions about the user's medical condition are only meaningful if accompanied by additional clinical findings.

Therapeutic procedures or the administration of medications should not be based solely on the data provided by the device.

The device is not designed for use with critically ill patients or for intracardiac applications.

PLACEMENT OF DISPOSABLE ELECTRODES

1. Patient electrodes must be placed by or under the supervision of a physician.
2. Preparation of the skin:
 - Dry your skin if it is damp or sweaty.
 - Shave off any hair that interferes with electrode placement. This will ensure better contact of the electrode with the skin.
 - Rub an alcohol wipe or benzoin tincture on the skin to remove oil and help with sticking the electrode.
3. Peel off the clear plastic cover from each electrode and apply the electrodes to the skin in the positions shown below (Figure 2).
4. Attach the ten electrodes to the patient. In each case, the electrode should make good uninterrupted contact with the patient's skin.

PROYAL: Hyaluronic acid 2% 3,000,000 DA. For intra-articular use

PROYAL: Hyaluronic acid 2% 3,000,000 DA. For intra-articular use.

New concept of forced lubrication for the cure of osteoarthritis that helps to restore the viscoelasticity of the synovial fluid, improving joint functionality.

Hyaluronic acid biosynthesis is reduced in terms of concentration and molecular weight. In healthy synovial fluid, in fact, HA is made up of linear chains with an average molecular weight of 6 million Daltons and a concentration reduced to 1.5 mg / ml. Being hyaluronic acid the main responsible for the rheological characteristics of the synovial fluid, the visco-elastic elasticity of the intra-articular fluid is reduced, compromising the lubrication and the protection of the articular cartilage of the cartilage against mechanical stress.

Product description: Proyal is a sterile, biodegradable, liquid salt and gel injectable syringe for intra-articular use. Proyal consists of high molecular weight hyaluronic acid, obtained from Streptococcus Equi bacteria, formulated at a concentration of 20 mg / ml in a physiological buffer. Proyal is characterized by the property of viscoelasticity; therefore, it facilitates the standardization of the viscosity of the synovial fluid present in the intra-articular cavity. Each box contains a Proyal syringe and a product brochure. In the box you will find a set of two labels that show the lot number. One of these labels must be attached to the patient's record and the other must be given to the patient to ensure traceability.

PRESENTATION OF SANAPLANT FERTILIZERS SERIES

We present a unique series of fertilizers designed for effective plant growth, increasing green mass quality and yield, microelement value and flavor of fruits and vegetables, anthocyanin concentration in foliage and peduncles, as well as disease prevention.

Our concept in the creation of fertilizers is based on properties similar to those developed by nature; The Sanaplant series of fertilizers fundamentally constitute a generation of fertilizers, very economically affordable, profitable and highly effective for the sowing of crops.

We apply a modern approach to the development of fertilizers based on the study of the activation of the plant's own genetic forces that are necessary for its growth and healthy fruiting, allowing the uniform distribution of nutrients in the green mass and fruits.

Fertilizers of the Sanaplant series are produced using a unique technology of biological-physical-chemical depolymerization/hydrolysis of natural products in order to obtain a sufficient amount of biogenic and safe components that provide adequate nutrition for plants and rhizosphere microflora.
